The game was bring the two teams to the highest point almost even until the sixth inning, when of efficiency. McGraw, having given up all hope of making an infielder out of Shafer, sent the fast little Californian to CLEVELAND.

Burns was brought up to the lead off position, and Fleigher was placed third. But no batting improvement was noticed. Chency, who is doing the most effective work in the box for the Cubs this season, held the champions to six hits and in the seventh to score the only run made by the Giants. In six of the nine innings if was one, two, three.

A three-hase hit by Burns to start the game resulted in nothing, as George was caught by Schulte at the plate trying to score on Shafer's fly. In the next four for Foster innings the home team got only three men to first, and only one of these advanced any further, Herzog walking in the third and stealing second. But the mighty "Chief" Meyers fanned in this pinch, and, while Herzog took third on Demarce's out, Burns lifted to Miller. The one run the Glants scored came in the seventh, when Fletcher bounced a hit off Cheney's glove and Doyle singled sharply to centre, putting Arthur on On an attempted double steal Pletcher was caught flatfooted off third by Archer, but Larry took second. Murray died. Phelan to Saier, and then Merkie hit to Phelan, who tossed to Evers and had Larry caught off second, but Johnny dropped the ball after tagging the runner. Herzog's timely single through short brought Doyle home. Then Meyers flied to Schulte.

The scoring done by the Cubs was largely the result of errors, six of which were made by the New York infield. Every one of the quartet made at least one misplay, while Fletcher contributed bench as a couple of weeks on SENATORS SCORE ONE RUN the bench as a punishment for former misdeeds. In the sixth Evers scratched a hit through Herzog, and Mitchell, on a lift-and-run play, rapped the sphere at force out, but the latter fumbled the ball and both runners were safe. A sacrifice fly by Phelan advanced the two men a base, and Saier's sacrifice fly to Shafer brought Evers home with the first run. Schulte flied to Shafer. In the eighth a wild throw by Herzog on Miller's dribble put the runner on second, so that could count on Evers's double down the third base line, the first clean hit that the Cubs made off Demaree. Mitchell rificed and Phelan hit to Demaree. Phelan, but was out at the plate,
